ACCUSES HER SISTER.

Anna Dickinson, Declared Sane, Says She is the Victim of a Cruel Plot.

Abducted by Violence After Her Papers Had Been Stolen.

Free and in New York to Get Redress for Her Wrongs.

Dr. Seward, of Goshen's Asylum, Says She Has Not Reen Insane at All.

Scarcely two months have passed since the public was shocked by the story that Miss Anna Dickinson, the gifted and elequent lecturer for the Republican National Committee, had lost her reason and had been confined in a madhouse hopelessly manne.

To-day Miss Dickinson, after escaping by chance from an imprisonment almost as dreadful as a living entom: ment, tells a story of wrongs and sufferings which she has un ergone during the past ew weeks, and alleges | tures, and so on, that she is the victim of a conspiracy deliber ately planned and carried out by her own

ANNA E. DICKINSON.

Her story is that although perfectly sand she was dragged from her home and incar cerated in an asylum filled with lunatics, and subjected to the most inhuman treatment. She says that while in the asylum she was able to tell no one of the horrors of her post-

Then Miss D exinson said to the reporter:
"I have all the documents to prove every allegation that I have made, and I have told my story to the public before instituting any legal proceedings in order that those whom I accuse may have an opportunity of answering me in the same way. " . Do you intend to go upon the lecture plat-

"In the course of my long public life I have received a very 1 rgs number of letters from promient men in National affairs. These letters are simply lovaius le to me; I believe that many of them are of value to posterty. I had them in boxes in the attic of the Pittston house. In the early days of February I look occasion to visit the attic myself to examine some of the letters.

"I found, to my intense supprise, that they had seen tampered with. Not only was the order in which they had been pushing and so they had seen tampered with the entry had seen tampered with a coning was the order in which they had been pushing marks of disturbing and is nother was, but the letters in macives and need altered. Somebody with a coming peo had been changing datas, altering worse, giving a different sine to significant phrases, I found at the same time evidences on acraps of paper arouns the nouse that somebody had been practising feats of expert penmanship in the way of imitated signatures, and so on. A PERANGE STORY.

"Now, it will beem o id to you that I should addine any such story as this as vidence in my defense, out when I tellyou taxt many of meas letters were of significance and an importance which I can int well overtace, and that the changes that were made in them were of a kind changes that were made in them were of a kind that would work to the advantage of any on who had a second to not the magnata me, you can understand more clearly wont I deap. Further than this I cannot go at present, because it would deal with matters which properly belong to the couris, and some things which are not mine to reveal, anyway.
